

Academic Job Details

Lecturer in Political Philosophy School of Geography, Politics and Sociology Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Academic Job Summary

.....

To conduct research in political philosophy, contribute to teaching on our undergraduate and postgraduate programmes, and collaborate with colleagues to ensure effective support for research, teaching and impact.

Specific Responsibilities of Position

.....

1. To conduct and publish research in political philosophy.
2. To contribute to teaching on compulsory and foundational modules at stages one and two, including a new module in Global Political Philosophy, which will be introduced when our new programmes in IR and Politics & IR begin in 2020.
3. To develop and teach a research-led stage 3 and/or postgraduate module, and advise undergraduate and postgraduate dissertation students.
4. To apply for external research funding, including developing collaborative applications with colleagues in Politics and/or elsewhere in the School, Faculty or University.
5. To discuss your research with potential (non-academic) beneficiaries of your work.
6. To recruit and supervise PhD students.
7. To contribute to the administration of the Politics teaching programmes and/or the effective management of other activities in Politics/the School.
8. To provide academic guidance and pastoral care to personal tutees.
9. To act in a collegial manner, making a positive contribution to maintaining and enhancing a collaborative environment that values and supports excellent research, teaching and impact.
10. To take responsibility for your professional and career development in a collaborative environment and with the support and encouragement of your mentors.

Academic Job Details

Person Specification

.....

	Qualifications	Essential or Desirable (E or D)
1	Good first degree and PhD (or near completion) in Politics or a related discipline	E
Knowledge, Skills and Experience
1	A track record of published research in political philosophy	E
2	Experience of teaching political philosophy to undergraduate and/or postgraduate students	E
3	Knowledge of and ability to teach global political philosophy	E
4	Experience of module design, module leadership, lecturing, seminar teaching, assessment, and dissertation supervision	D
5	Excellent teaching skills	E
6	Experience of applying for research funding	D
7	Experience of discussing your research with potential (non-academic) beneficiaries of your work	D
8	Experience of providing academic guidance and pastoral care to students	D
9	Experience of providing support or mentoring to colleagues or students	E
Attributes and Behaviours
1	Commitment to maintaining and supporting a diverse and inclusive working environment, in which all colleagues and students are treated fairly and respectfully	E
2	Ability to work as part of a team and on own initiative	E
3	Willingness and ability to act in a collegial manner, making a positive contribution to maintaining and enhancing a collaborative environment that values and supports excellent research, teaching and impact	E
4	Willingness and ability to assume administrative responsibilities	E

HR Office Use Only
SAP Position Number:
Grade:	G
Effective Date:	25/09/2018